
Consultation on Heritable and Moveable Asset Registers for former Burgh of Kelso

Appendix 1: Responses to Consultation and Officers' Considerations

Consultation Comment	SBC Response	Recommended action
Shedden Park should be on the Common Good Register	The park was acquired in 1951 as the result of a court decree resulting in a trust reorganisation. As a result of the holding by the Council of this asset in terms of public trust, it cannot be classified as Common Good, but it does have a similar status.	No action
Abbey Row Centre should be on the Common Good Register	This asset was not owned by the Burgh and accordingly does not form part of the Common Good. It was acquired by Roxburgh County Council in 1957 under the Education (Scotland) Acts.	No action
Tait Hall should be on the Common Good Register	This property is already on the Common Good register	No action
